CUT STRING STAIRS

A grand staircase design, made the traditional way.

What is a Cut String Staircase?

Return Ends to Treads

Designed to hide the end grain on the treads, enhancing the high-quality appearance expected of a cut string staircase.

Risers Mitred Into String

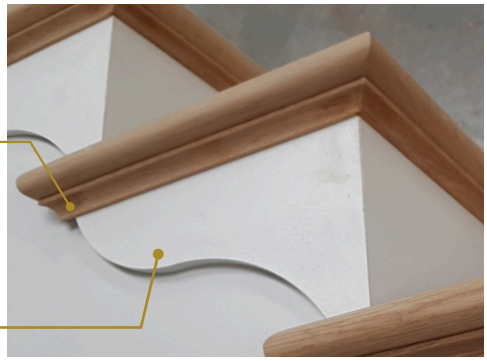
These hide the end grain on the risers.
When using decorative brackets, the riser is mitred into the bracket for a refined finish.

Spindles Tenoned Into Treads

For easy on-site fitting, spindles slot directly into pre-formed pockets on the treads.

Optional Extras

These traditional details can be added



Budget Options

For painted cut string staircases, MDF treads offer a cost-effective option. With no grain, the return nosing is integral to the tread.
